MYSTERY OF TWO

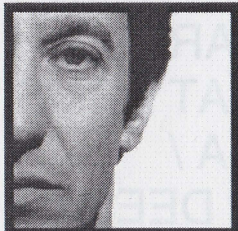

Horror of 59 is a punk rock band from Cleveland, Ohio with a decidedly morbid sensibility. Sure, The Misfits are an influence, but Horror of 59 draws from the whole history of seventies and eighties punk, sixties garage rock, fifties rock 'n' roll, and even a little bit of metal. Lyrically, the band is inspired not just by horror films, but by real life horrors and local ghost stories and legends of their northeast Ohio stomping grounds.

The band has been bringing its unique brand of musical terror to the masses since September of 2004. The pieces that make up this Frankenstein monster are Deke - Bass, Tommy Horror - Guitar, Brent Bastard - Drums, and Bob Noxious- vocals. Let the horror begin!

Clan of the Cave Bear

Electric guitar and a drum set living together in a truck
hitting speed bumps
occasionally, but not always.
Sometimes the truck slows down for the bumps. Or it may hit the bumps very hard.

Full Wave Rectifier was formed in 1999 out of Akron, Ohio by former Dink lead singer/guitarist Jer Herring after the breakup of that band. Full Wave Rectifier has released two EPs and two LPs in their eight years together. And they are currently working on an EP with a tentative release in the fall of '07. The band brings a mature guitar driven sound with Pixies-influenced harmonies, catchy pop-vibes, Minutemen-style minimalism and a wiry punk rock edge, shifting between sugary pop and grimy rock.

WRUW CELEBRATING 40 YEARS 1967 - 2007

Man at Arms is a noisy rock band from the Midwest. Its members are Eric and Ted who, respectively, play guitar and drums. Both of them sing. The guitars are biting, the drumming is precise and brutal, the commentary, frustrated and scathing. Starting in Grand Rapids, Mich., in the spring of 2002 as a three-piece, the band has been playing shows around its native state and the Midwest. In January of 2005, Man at Arms parted ways with founding member and bassist, Jason, and continued to play shows and write and record songs as a two-piece. The resulting product was the band's Being and Commerce E.P., a collection of sharp, concise songs about things its members have read in books, listened to on the radio, and overheard in conversations. Its distorted, yet dynamic music is quirky without being weird and catchy without conventional pop hooks, drawing comparisons to the Minutemen, Shellac, and Fugazi.

According to the Recording Industry Association of America Chum is 19 on the list of Top Selling Artists of all time (having sold more than 56 cdr's in the U.S.). Chum is one of five rock groups that have had two albums (not including Greatest Hits albums) (the eponymous debut Typhoid Mary and 6th Grade Summer Ep) sell more than 20 copies each in the U.S. In addition to being recognized for their artistic contributions, commercial success and popularity, the band is known for drama surrounding the lead singer Shawn Flowers. Although the core instrumentalists and backing vocals have remained constant (Chris on drums, bass & couch, Tony on guitar, bass & fake Flower's vocals), the band has recorded a studio album recently at Zombie Proof Studios under very cloudy circumstances.

UNSPARING
SEA

UNSPARING SEA is five people (j.r. bennett, david maison, tara klein, beth shafer & marc howell) singing and playing instruments (guitar, bass, cello, keyboards & drums) making music about mistrust, misguidance, misfortune, misbehavior, misanthropy and missiles. woozy sea chanteys and drunken hymns sung loudly from the golden shores of lake erie. it's probably the music woodrow wilson would've made had he been more musically inclined.

Homostupids were so awful at the Cake Shop. It might be that I've just seen too many bad bands that try to get by on attitude alone, but that sort of thing doesn't impress me. They didn't actually make it through any songs, but just kind of stumbled around a lot. The guitarist fell over at one point.

Yeah but it's hard to say what actually influences you though- what you love isn't always what influences you.

- arto lindsay

Original experimental indie rock may be hard to come by these days, but Cleveland act Mystery of Two does a great job of channeling influences (Pere Ubu, Talking Heads and FIREHOSE) in its bang-up debut, "Arrows Are All You Know." The marrow of the 10-track album is its off-kilter rhythms, insidious melodies and coarse vocals. Singer-guitarist Ryan Weitzel, who on occasion strays near a Tom Waits timbre, provides the last. Something this trio uses to its advantage is the unexpected guitar jam, which momentarily supplants the mesmerizing jangly chords for a darker expression. This is the case on the gritty "Pitfalls" and up-tempo "Quick." . . . This first effort can be considered a bull's-eye.

- Jim Gill
